

WHY THEY STAY

Why do good women stay with men mired in sex scandals?

Political journalist Anne Michaud describes the hidden agendas women employ to gain and cling to power. Working as a reporter for The Wall Street Journal and previously awarded “Columnist of the Year” by the New York News Publishers Association, Anne has researched the women behind some of the most notorious men in the public eye.

She discovered a surprising pattern as old as the dynastic maneuverings of England’s medieval queens. Women make bold decisions for security and to keep their family’s history-making potential.

Why They Stay reveals the inner lives of eight political wives as they fight to maintain a grip on power and pursue personal ambition:

Melania Trump: A foreigner’s desire to live the American dream.

Hillary Clinton: One masterful decision launched her political career.

Jackie Kennedy: Coping in bed all the way to the bank.

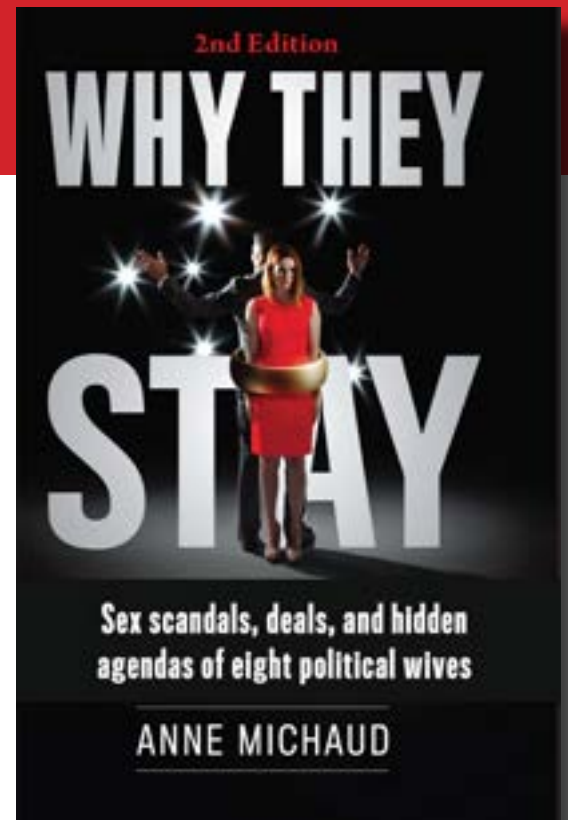

Eleanor Roosevelt: A lifeless marriage sparks a social champion.

Marion Thorpe: Riding out British scandal to provide for her sons.

Wendy Vitter: Married to the Party versus married to a man.

Silda Wall Spitzer: Real-life drama spawns TV show The Good Wife.

Huma Abedin: How to win against a man and the Media.
